

In this module we will explore: Shifts in understanding and terminology Legislation and guidance What is abuse and who are the perpetratos? Our approach to safeguarding

Where are we now?

Think for a minute about what you see and hear in the media. What is influencing the safeguarding landscape?

- · Historical Institutional Abuse Inquiry
- Adult survivors of abuse speaking out
- · Comprehensive research and data
- Social media, advanced technology and communication

Safeguarding is everyone's business

- "For faith-based organisations, getting this right can be challenging but it must be at the heart of everything they do. Recognising the risks and understanding that abusers can hide in plain sight is more than a tick-box exercise, it's about culture and behaviour."
 - Paul Burstow, Chair SCIE

Significant harm

- · A single traumatic event e.g. violent as sault or;
- · A series of events, both acute and long standing.

Signs, indicators and the effects of abuse

- Children will be children. They can get all sorts of ailments, bumps, scratches, bruises and even broken bones through the natural course of life.
- Poor mental health in children is on the increase with reports of self-harm, anxiety and depression becoming a major issue.

When should alarm bells ring or what might cause suspicions?

thirtyone:

Case scenarios

Read/listen to the case scenario given to you by your trainer:

- · What, if any, are the indicators or signs of abuse?
- Can you identify the category/categories of abuse?
- · What would your initial thoughts or concerns be?

Scenario 1 - George

George is 7. He has been attending your church with his Grandma and Grandad, Mr and Mrs Brown, for several weeks. Mr and Mrs Brown are long-standing members of the church. Mrs Brown volunteers in the Sunday school with the children. Last week, whilst Mrs Brown was on duty in the Sunday school, George and some other children were running around at the end of the session waiting for parents to collect them. George declared he was hot and pulled his jumper off. There were noticeable bruless on both arms. Mrs Brown ran over to him quickly and barked, 'put your jumper back on!' A worker then saw Mrs Brown take George aside and tell him quietly that he must always keep his jumper on.

thirtyone:

Physical abuse

Hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning, scalding, drowning, suffocating or otherwise causing physical harm to a child.

- Injuries not consistent with an explanation
- · Injuries to unexposed parts of the body
- Lack of medical attention/untreated illnesses

thirtyone: @

Physical abuse vs discipline

- · No such thing as perfect parents.
- Remember the biblical mandate.
- A physical injury due to harsh physical discipline may trigger a statutory investigation.

Scenario 2 - Noah & Jack

Noah and Jack are twins aged 2, the youngest of 5 siblings. The other children are aged 16, 9 and 5. As a family they are very well known to the church. Both the parents, Jim and Sally, were actively volunteering in the church until last year when they separated. Sally says that Jim, just left and she has no idea where he has gone. You have noticed a significant change in all of the children but a creche worker has reported particular concerns about Noah and Jack, stating that they have been coming to the creche wearing dirty clothes, they are very smelly and that during snack time, they are stuffing biscuits into their mouth, always asking for more when they have finished.

thirtyone:

Neglect

Persistent failure to meet a child's basic and/or psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of a child's health or development. This may also include neglect of the unborn child.

- · Under nourishment
- · Failing to thrive
- Failing to prevent a child from harm

thirtyone:

Scenario 3 - Grace

Grace is 15, she attends youth club on a Thursday night. She is a quiet and shy girl and only ever talks to one other girl whom she knows from school. During an adult-led group discussion, the topic is about Jesus' love. As the young people share, Grace starts to cry and runs out of the room. A worker goes after her and then Grace shares, 'How can Jesus love me? My family doesn't even love me. They say I am ugly and fat and they laugh when my younger brother calls me stupid. I think they just hate me and wish I was never born.' Grace goes on to tell you that she tried to take an overdose but when that didn't work, she started to cut her arms.

Emotional

Persistent emotional ill-treatment of a child such as to cause severe and persistent adverse effects on his/her emotional development.

- Conveying to children they are worthless, unloved or inadequate.
- Inappropriate expectations for their age or development.
- Causing children to feel frightened or in danger.

thirtyone:

Scenario 4 - Tunde

Tunde is 10 and lives with his mum. He does not have any brothers or sisters. He comes to church sporadically on a Sunday but every school holiday he always attends the church holiday club. You know that his mum does full-time shift work at the local shop. Sometimes her shifts are in the evening so she often asks her brother to come and babysit. During the Easter holiday club, you overhear Tunde talking to another boy of a similar age, showing off a brand new mobile phone and saying that his uncle gave it to him. Near the end of the session, the other boy tells a worker that he saw lots of naked pictures of Tunde on the phone and that it makes him feel worried because his mum has told him that we should never take naked pictures of ourselves because bad people might get hold of them.

Sexual

Forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening.

- Any sexual physical contactor touching.
- May involve children looking at adult sexual content.
- May involve children having their photo taken or being filmed for the production of abuse images.

The challenges of identifying abuse

- · We live in a multi-cultural society.
- · Families live and parent differently.
- The impact or implications for disabled children or children with additional needs.
- · It's essential to understand the families with whom we work.
- We must never justify abuse or harmful actions of others.

Grooming Take a few minutes to consider the following: • When you hear the word grooming what comes to mind? • Do you think some children and young people are more wulnerable to being groomed than others?

Grooming Identifying vulnerable children. Befriending the network around the child. Building 'special', often exclusive relationships. Physical contact which increases over time. On-line grooming.

Online grooming Befriending with a view to ill intent. Predominantly results in sexual harm. The grooming process is often much quicker online than offline. Offenders may seek to elicit personal information σ images.

The power of secrets: why people don't tell? They may have tried before. Scared of the consequences. Think they are to blame or that it's 'normal'. Feel embarrassed and ashamed. Fear they may split the family apart.

Long term effects The effects of abuse can last for many years. Children may grow up finding it difficult to trust or interact with peers and adults well. Forgiveness is not an easy concept for children.

In this module we will explore:
The importance of understanding your unique role
The role of the safeguarding coordinator
How to respond to concerns, suspicions or a disclosure of abuse
The role of the statutory authorities
	thirtyone:

Your unique role Position of Trust Only port of call for a child or young person You may witness or hear something untoward. Every situation will be different. Always think, which hat are you wearing?

Accountability Consider your church/ organisational structure: Are there clear lines of accountability in relation to safeguarding? Ultimately, where would the final responsibility rest if something goes wrong?

The role of the safeguarding coordinator

- First port of call.
- Ensure that appropriate policies exist.
- Have contact details of key organisations and helplines.
- To be an advocate/voice for children and young people.
- To liaise with the statutory authorities.

thirtyone:

Responding to concerns & suspicions of abuse

Some factors may add an additional layer of complexity and can sometimes create a dilemma:

- Age of the child.
- · Dependence on side carer.
- · Additional learning, social or communication needs.
- Needs assistance with personal care.
- Isolated living conditions.

Responding to disclosures
Don't ask questions - simply reflect back.
Show acceptance and keep calm.
Don't promise confidentiality.
Write detailed notes as soon as possible.
Pass information on to your safeguarding coordinator.
Get help and support for yourself.
Don't be tempted to investigate concerns yourself.
RECOGNISE, RESPOND, RECORD, REPORT, REFLECT	thirtyone:

Discussion Return to the case study you explored in Module 2. Begin to unpack this a little further and think about how you might respond, what action you might take and who might you speak to.
